

EONS President

The Role in Summary

The EONS President is the presiding officer of the European Oncology Nursing Society (EONS). The President is a Member of the Board. The role has a two year term of office. Only in exceptional condition is the term extended or terminated according the EONS by-laws.

The role of President follows on from the role of President-Elect. The President must have served a minimum of one successful year as President-Elect of the Society. After serving the two-year term as President, the President takes on the role of Past-President for the following two years.

Once a person has been elected to the position of President-Elect, neither the Advisory Council nor the Board can alter the succession of that person to the Presidency unless he/she vacates office during her/his term as President-Elect or grounds arise for deposing him/her from that position.

Board Member skills

The President must possess all of the essential qualifications required of all EONS Board members and must also:

1. demonstrate a knowledge and understanding of policy, practice and other issues relevant cancer nursing issues, at a national, European and global level,
2. have a proven track record in clinical practice, nursing management or leadership, nursing research, nursing education or healthcare policy,
3. be reliable, fair, have personal integrity, decisiveness and ability to work on their own initiative,
4. have good team working skills e.g. being able to motivate and inspire others and work collaboratively with all relevant stakeholders,
5. be able to communicate at public events on behalf of the society,
6. be prepared to invest their time, energy and enthusiasm to commit wholeheartedly to the role.

Responsibilities of the Role

In addition to the core Board Member responsibilities, the President is required to:

- attend, participate and lead all governance meetings of the Society as well as any other activities deemed necessary for good governance,
- work closely with the Past President and President-Elect in order to assist with the delivery of the work of the Society,

- work with the EONS Chief Operating Officer to ensure that a proper and adequate record of decision-making is maintained for future reference and external annual audit, as well as authenticate, when necessary, all acts, orders and proceedings,
- lead the review of the EONS mission, vision, and values of the Society as well as the strategic planning and priority-setting processes,
- act as the spokesperson for, and representative of, the Society at external engagements, developing strong strategic relationships with key stakeholders,
- ensure that strong society organisational processes and structures are in place so that EONS administration and management foundations represent good or best practice,
- engage in EONS advocacy work, collaborating with stakeholders to develop EONS positions on significant issues,
- act as a mentor for the President-Elect,
- serve as member or as co-chair of the EONS yearly Scientific Congress Committee,
- opens the EONS yearly Scientific Congress,
- participate in the annual performance appraisal of the Society's Chief Operating Officer,
- protect EONS intellectual property.

Arrangements for the Disbursement of Employer's Costs / Expenses

Applicants for the post should have sought and received assurance from their employer(s) that they will be able to dedicate the requisite amount of time to the post before putting themselves forward for election. In recognition of this, EONS will reimburse the President's employer(s), or the President him/herself if self employed, with a presidential grant sum of 15 000€ per year. This grant supports dedicated time to fulfil the presidential role within EONS from regular duties at work. Travel, accommodation and reasonable expenses incurred in respect of the role will also be refunded to the post-holder where appropriate within 3 months.
