

EONS Education Working Group is seeking two new members.

We are looking for members who are actively engaged in education related to cancer nursing either in the university or clinical education and who has the time, enthusiasm and commitment to support EONS develop the education of cancer nurses and its impact across Europe!

Education Working Group have the following goals the members are expected to be engaged with:

- Recognising and supporting accessible education to meet the learning needs of cancer nurses across Europe.
- Promoting and creating opportunities so cancer nurses can learn from and teach each other, the inter-professional team and those affected by cancer at any point across the care continuum.
- Striving to ensure that all cancer nursing education which is developed, delivered, and endorsed by EONS is evidence based and aligned with by the EONS Cancer Nursing Education Framework.
- Supporting the vision that people affected by cancer are cared for by specialist cancer nurses across Europe by providing a point of reference and a network of expertise to those who develop and deliver education and development opportunities for cancer nurses across Europe.
- Leading on education related activities within EONS supporting and influencing education priorities.

We require nurses who understand, speak and write fluent English. In this call we are looking for members preferably not from the United Kingdom and belonging to a National Oncology Nursing Society/Associate member or being an individual member of EONS. Should you be interested in joining, please provide a maximum of two-page CV and letter of interest, including reasons for wanting to join the group and a summary of what you would bring to it, to Rudi Brike at eons.secretariat@cancernurse.eu
